Dear Friends of Mercy

I hope the beauty of fall is surrounding you and you have time to get out and enjoy all of God's creation.

As I am sure many of you are aware, Pope Francis declared a Jubilee Year of Mercy beginning last December and ending this coming November. He invited people of all faith traditions to find meaningful ways to make this a more merciful world. Obviously, this year has special meaning to all of us involved in Mercy organizations. This has been a wonderful time to show mercy and also to reflect on mercy.

I believe that "mercy" is a very powerful word that can get overlooked because it is such a part of our identity. There are many definitions of "mercy" but, for me, the most succinct definition is the ability to see things from another's perspective, and it involves a response that springs from the heart in order to relieve misery or suffering. The act of mercy is definitely not for the faint hearted!

As a Sister of Mercy, I have a deep desire to share God's mercy with all I meet. I am also very aware of the many dedicated lay people who believed in the Sisters' mission and were willing to work alongside the Sisters to support our various ministries. There is a quote on the Lundy fountain from the Constitutions for the Sisters of Mercy that says, "By collaborating with others in works of mercy, we continually learn from them how to be more merciful." That statement reflects the great gratitude the Sisters of Mercy have for all those who have been part of our work through the years. Indeed, we do learn from each of you how to be more merciful.

This Jubilee Year of Mercy has made all of us more aware of the great power of mercy, and thankfully for all of us associated with Mercy Medical Center, every year is a year of mercy! Thanks to each of you for being ambassadors of mercy—taking mercy to places and situations far beyond what the Sisters of Mercy could do on their own. We are very grateful.

Sisters of Mercy ministries have been in Cedar Rapids for more than 140 years. With your continued financial and "merciful" support, we will be here for another 140 years.

In gratitude and MERCY,

Sr. Susan O'Connor

Protecting the police: Philanthropist's passion helps community and colleagues

“Our family has a long history of charitable giving,” explains Nora Royer, MD, a surgeon in Mercy’s General Surgery Clinic and medical director of the hospital’s trauma department.

“I think it’s a very good way to become engaged in your community.”

In August 2016, the Cornyn Family Charitable Fund—a legacy donation established by Dr. Royer’s aunt—donated $10,829.60 to the Cedar Rapids Police Department to aid in the purchase of bleeding control equipment and officer-protection supplies to assist during out-of-hospital emergency care, sudden illness or traumatic injury.

“It’s important to me, and to Mercy’s trauma program, that we follow guidance from the American College of Surgeons in equipping local first responders with the supplies they need to safely control bleeding from traumatic injuries,” Dr. Royer says. “Tourniquets and bleeding control equipment have saved lives in every city in which they have been deployed to officers.”

The Cedar Rapids Police Department reports officers respond to over 3,600 medical emergencies per year and are often the first on the scene.

“We found in coordinating with the police department that a lot of people don’t think of a public entity as being charitable,” explains Dr. Royer, “but they are nonprofits, and their budgets often don’t cover all their needs.”

The Cornyn Family Charitable Fund’s gift will enable the department to purchase 30 emergency medical services shears, 30 personal hemorrhage control kits and 260 combat application tourniquets. Mercy Medical Center also donated 48 cases of protective gloves and two cases of rolled gauze to the police.

“Trying to form those partnerships to really make an impact in your local community has always been very important to me,” Dr. Royer states. “For me, being involved at a local level improves the health and safety of our community. It lets you see the impact made for your friends and neighbors.”

The Mercy Foundation worked alongside the Cornyn Family Charitable Fund to help coordinate its important community gift.

The Cornyn Family Fund, in turn, made a generous gift to the Mercy Foundation in support of nursing educational opportunities. Mercy Foundation President Sue Hawn says, “What an extraordinary example of passion for community, and passion for health, binding together for an inspiring impact. The Mercy Foundation is grateful to Dr. Royer for sharing her family’s legacy with us.”

“Trying to form those partnerships to really make an impact in your local community has always been very important to me.”

– Nora Royer, MD

Ken Kirby, 93, wrote a letter to the CDC and received a positive response.

Advocating for Alzheimer's: Family caregiver's determination achieves milestone for research

Ken and Bernice Kirby were married July 26, 1947. They built a beautiful life together with their two children. Fifty-nine years later, during a trip to San Diego, Ken noticed a difference in his wife.

“We would go for walks down on the waterfront, and there were a number of incidents when Bernice’s answers to questions weren’t quite right,” Ken, a retired biochemist, recalls. “I began to wonder if there was some loss in her memory. I didn’t know what it was at that time. It was new to me.”

It was Alzheimer’s disease.

The Cedar Rapids couple made their home in the Methwick community before Bernice moved to Mercy’s Hallmar long-term care facility in 2015.

“The last two years she was nonverbal, she barely spoke,” explains Ken. “I kept telling her what we were doing, what was going on all the time, just because I understood that one never knows what degree of perception is there. There may be something that’s worthwhile, so we did what was normal. I think that probably helped her.”

When Alzheimer’s advocate and Family Caregivers Center Director Kathy Good held a discussion at Hallmar, Ken took the opportunity to introduce himself. The pair both had spouses living with Alzheimer’s at the facility. They both understood what the disease was like. They stayed in touch.

Bernice passed away on March 18, 2016, after a 10 year battle with Alzheimer’s. She was 89. When Ken received her death certificate, he spotted something curious.

“The physician noted the cause of death was myocardial infarction (heart attack),” states Ken. “That was pretty fascinating because there was no history of heart disease. There was no EKG, nothing to say anything of a heart condition.”

“Ken realized that when Alzheimer’s is not listed as the cause of death on certificates, the disease is under reported and is not granted as much money for research,” says Kathy, who helped Ken connect with Mercy’s Executive Vice President and Chief of Clinical Operations Tim Quinn, MD, for suggestions on how to approach making a change.

Ken embarked on a letter-writing campaign to advocate for the addition of Alzheimer’s dementia to the Physician’s Handbook on Medical Certification, a physician training tool organized by the Department of Health and Human Services, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). He read and re-read the handbook to fully understand its medical terminology.

“I wanted to know the reason as to why Alzheimer’s had so few numbers coming through death reporting,” explains Ken. “The handbook is very well written. It has some excellent examples as to what a physician can use to note any kind of death. There are very fine examples, but there are none for Alzheimer’s.”

Ken decided to send a letter to CDC CEO Tom Frieden, MD.

“I thought it might end up in the round file. But it didn’t. He read it,” Ken says. “The response I got back was in less than a month, and it was from the director of national statistics, who makes records of the death numbers that go to congress. The letter said they agreed with me.”

In the letter the department notes, “Your suggestion to include examples involving Alzheimer’s dementia in the handbook is a good one.”

The department plans to incorporate the disease accordingly, which will strengthen training for every doctor nationwide and, ultimately, lead to a more accurate picture of Alzheimer’s-related deaths in America.

“This is a huge victory for Ken,” says Kathy, “but an even greater victory for anyone who cares about finding a cure for Alzheimer’s as this should get a whole lot more money directed to researching the cause and, more important, the cure.”

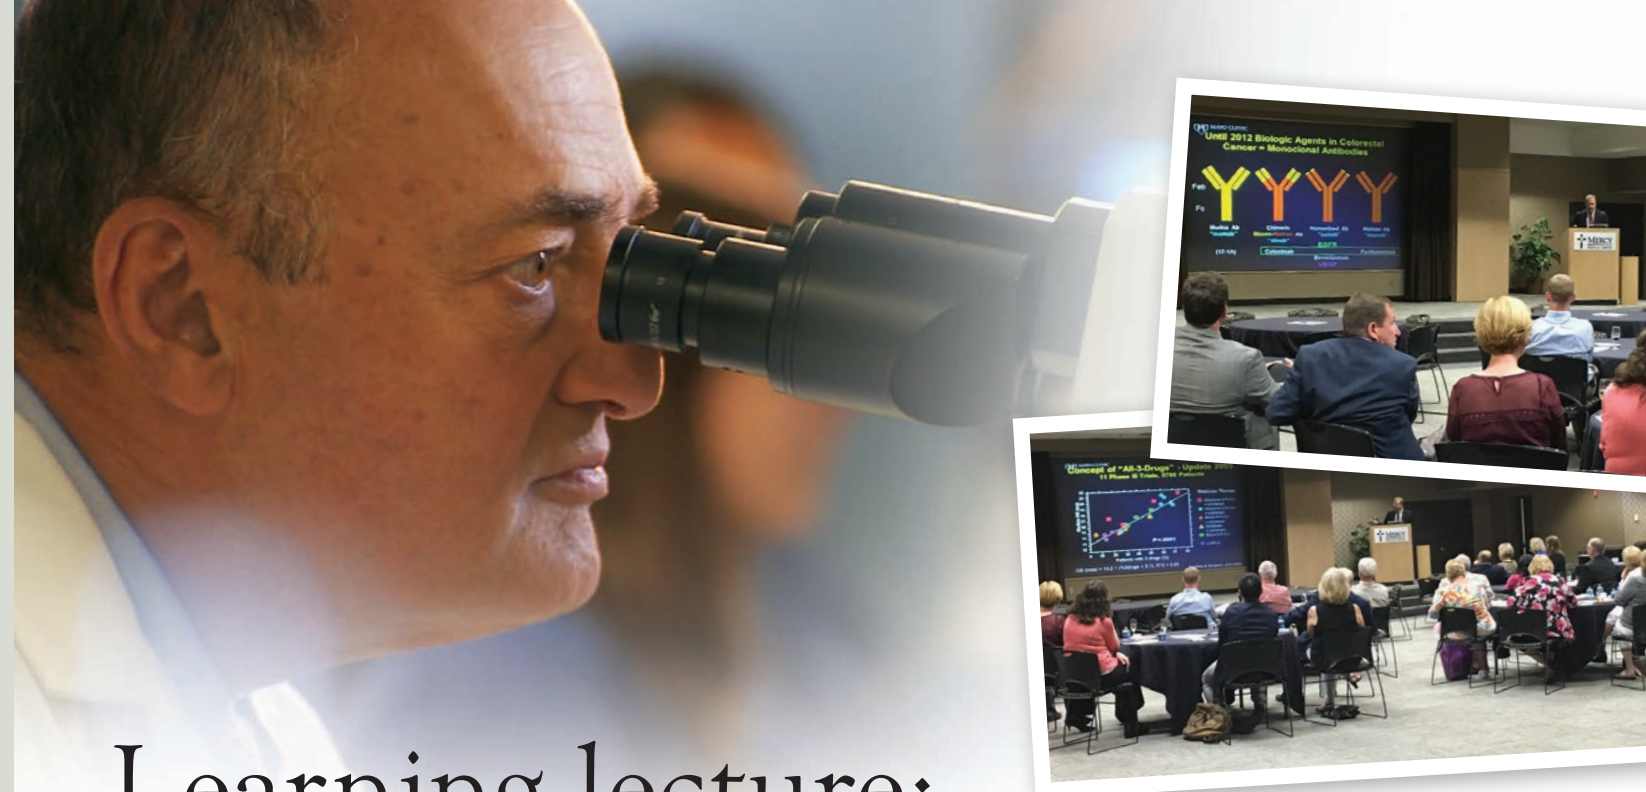

“That’s good news. It really is,” Ken states. “And that was my whole point. I’ve been in research all my life. I know that research works. It’s worked for cancer and heart disease—there are millions of people living because they have the advantage of those discoveries. There’s nothing like that for Alzheimer’s.”

“I think what Ken was able to accomplish is a great example of what family caregivers can do when we develop a network with one another,” explains Kathy. “When we brainstorm together, discuss our concerns and take steps in positive directions to garner change, it creates profound legacies in honor of our loved ones. And what a legacy Ken’s love has built for his wife.”

Bernice Kirby’s cause of death has been changed from heart attack to Alzheimer’s on her certificate.

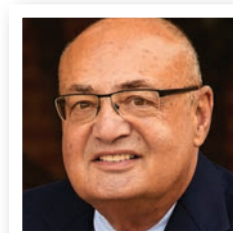

“This is a huge victory for Ken but an even greater victory for anyone who cares about finding a cure for Alzheimer’s...”

– Kathy Good, Family Caregivers Center Director

Learning lecture: Oncologist’s commitment to cure demonstrated through education

Dr. Martin Wiesenfeld Oncology Lecture Series launched in May 2016

Martin Wiesenfeld, MD, FACP

Martin Wiesenfeld, MD, FACP, began private practice with Internists PC after completing his fellowship in medical hematology-oncology at the University of Iowa in 1979. In 1983, he joined Dr. Dean Gesme to form Oncology Associates of Cedar Rapids, specializing in blood disorders and cancer treatments.

Dr. Wiesenfeld helped obtain the Community Clinical Oncology Program grant and served as principal investigator of the Cedar Rapids Oncology Project from 1985 to 2011. In 2012, he led the move of Oncology Associates into Mercy Medical Center’s Hall-Perrine Cancer Center where he served as medical director. In 2013, after 34 years of dedicated service to the community, Dr. Wiesenfeld retired from medical oncology practice.

Known as a local pioneer in oncology research, Dr. Wiesenfeld’s rapport within the oncology community and passion for cancer care continues despite retirement; that’s why his colleagues, friends and family were moved to create an annual lecture series in his honor.

Dr. Wiesenfeld once said, “As healthcare providers, our commitment is to continually look for ways to enhance the health of our patients.” Through the Dr. Martin Wiesenfeld Oncology Lecture Series launched in May 2016, his philosophy will continue to make an education impact on healthcare professionals fighting for a cure.

Guided by the words of Sisters of Mercy foundress Catherine McAuley, “We can never say it is enough,” the Mercy Foundation is committed to professional development through education.

“Ultimately, the goal for the series is to become permanently endowed,” says Amy Geiger, Vice President of Development for Hall-Perrine Cancer Center, “so that future generations of healthcare professionals are offered informative access to oncology findings.”

Helping Hospice: Corporation goes casual for co-worker

It's heartwarming to live in a community that cares.

Mercy Medical Center is blessed to have so many organizations, businesses, schools, churches and individuals step forward with creative ideas to raise money for essential programs that make a difference in the lives of their loved ones.

One such business is Toyota Financial Services.

It all started with a personal story.

A Toyota employee experienced her father's end of life journey at the Dennis and Donna Oldorf Hospice House of Mercy. The employee's family was forever grateful for the care their father received, but it was the special attention and compassion bestowed upon the family themselves that made the extra difference. Their stress level decreased dramatically knowing their father was being cared for by skilled professionals. The warm, home-like environment of the hospice house provided peace and comfort while the soothing nature of the interior garden eased anxiety.

So when Toyota's TEAM IMPACT—an employee group that brainstorms ways to charitably support the community—began organizing a month-long fundraising campaign and discussing who the beneficiary of their effort should be, the affected staff suggested the Oldorf Hospice House of Mercy in gratitude for their compassionate care during her father's final days.

In August 2016, TEAM IMPACT sponsored Toyota's Summer Super Casual Month. Employees purchased coupons, which allowed them to wear casual clothes throughout the month. The popular fundraiser raised more than $3,500 for the hospice house, thanks to the generous support of Toyota employees whose passion for supporting a co-worker's gratitude has made a positive impact for others.

The gift will help hospice patients without the ability to pay and will support meaningful services like massage, music and pet therapy.

✝ If your group or organization is interested in organizing a service project or fundraising activity for any Mercy service, call the Mercy Foundation at (319) 398-6206.

When circumstance becomes relationship

A circumstance we can all understand has quickly turned into a new relationship with our community through the services offered by the Family Caregivers Center of Mercy.

Since its opening last December, the Family Caregivers Center has become eastern Iowa's hub for those who nurture a loved one with long-term health issues that require constant care. It's a place of relationship on a variety of levels, building a network of hope and connections for the family caregiver.

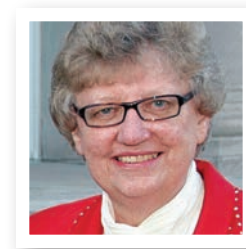

Mercy Medical Center, along with Family Caregivers Center Director Kathy Good, recognized the circumstance—providing services and care for the caregiver—and committed to changing this profound need into a relationship of care for the caregiver.

The mission of the caregivers center has resonated in a very personal and emotional way with hundreds of people. The Mercy Foundation committed to raising $2.5 million to create a fund to support the operations and activities of the center. Since we began our fundraising initiative last September, we have raised $2,356,000 and are $144,000 from our goal!

Along the way, we have engaged many donors who have joined us with their generous gifts to support the center. We deeply appreciate each gift, as each one represents an understanding of a family caregiver's responsibilities, which ties us all together in a very special way.

At the beginning of our campaign, we were blessed with three testamentary estate gifts that impacted the launch of caregivers center operations and the Mercy Foundation's funding initiative. Gifts from the estates of Mary Cashen, Sam and Francie Cohn, and Margaret Haupt played a pivotal role in our campaign. Mary's gift provided the funds to help cover the start-up costs as the center opened for business last December.

Francie and Sam's estate gift was designated to help seed the new endowment that will support the center's needs into perpetuity. Margaret's gift came out of an actual relationship with the center when she found herself in a caregiving role and needed the center's support. Through her relationship as a caregiver, Margaret's intent is to help change the circumstances of future caregivers for the better. These individuals were either receiving or giving care, and the mission of the caregivers center provided the perfect fit for their gift to make a difference to others through their estate plan.

The passion of one person can change the lives of many, as the stories in this edition of Partners prove. Giving transforms the giver and the receiver, changing circumstances and creating a beautiful relationship!

Our thanks to each of you for your generous support!
